

Child Abuse Pediatrician | Charleston, South Carolina

The Department of Pediatrics at the Medical University of South Carolina (MUSC) is seeking a full-time Child Abuse Pediatrician to serve as faculty in the Division of Child Abuse Pediatrics. Currently the Division includes two faculty members, one fellow, seven advanced practice providers and many other support staff and PSANEs.

The MUSC Child Abuse program is recognized throughout the community for its expertise. It provides consultation for clinics at MUSC Health in downtown Charleston as well as MUSC Health outreach clinics, the Dee Norton Lowcountry Child Advocacy Center, the Kay Phillips Children Advocacy Center, and a growing MUSC CAP telehealth service with Hopeful Horizons Child Advocacy Center.

- Candidates must be board eligible or certified in Child Abuse Pediatrics.
- Candidates must have or be eligible for a South Carolina Medical License.

Responsibilities will include patient care, teaching, research work, administration, institutional service, and professional development. Physician duties include the supervision of the clinical nurse practitioners in addition to coordinating care with a multi-disciplinary team. MUSC serves as a regional center with a full complement of pediatric sub-specialists. MUSC currently has a fellowship with 1 PEM-CAP fellow. However, with the addition of more faculty, plans expand to 1 CAP or PEM-CAP fellow per year.

MUSC is the premier medical center and academic teaching hospital in South Carolina and the only quaternary referral center for children in the state. We are located in Charleston, a beautiful and historic but cosmopolitan city on the Atlantic Coast. MUSC and the Department of Pediatrics both have an impressive record of recent growth. The MUSC Shawn Jenkins Children's Hospital opened in 2020. This 250-bed state-of-the-art building has transformed how care is delivered to children in South Carolina.

The city of Charleston has been ranked the best city in America by multiple publications and travel sites. The Charleston community is family-friendly with excellent neighborhoods and schools, access to numerous cultural and outdoor activities, and easy transportation.
